

DELTA UPSILON QUARTERLY

SUMMER 2006

Delta U House, Hamilton College

JULY 21, 1847, is recorded in history as the day on which the sale of two women slaves by a United States Marshal in the District of Columbia gave fresh impetus to the anti-slavery movement. It was on the evening of that day that ten Hamilton undergraduates, fired with the fervor of crusaders, met in the room of Charles L. Adams and discussed the formation of any organization to combat the evils of secrecy in College societies. Thus was born the Hamilton Chapter of Delta Upsilon, the oldest unit of continuous existence in our Fraternity.

The second...
